PEOPLE OF NOTE.

ohn S. Barbour, United States Senate Elect from Virginia. herefore no surprise to the people of the old Dominion when it was announced

Old Dominion when it was announced that he had received the unanimous vote of the Democratic cancus, which is equivalent to an election. The date of the formal vote and announcement is December 20. Last year Colonel Barbour declined a re-election to Gongress, and in pravious years he would not allow his name to be used in the State Convention for the office of Governor.

John S. Barbour was born in the county of Culpeper, Virginis, December 29, 1820. After careful proparation he became a student of the University of Virginis, and graduated from its law school in 1843. Mr. Barbour began the practice of his profession in his native county soon after his graduation, and continued in practice until 1852. In the spring of 1847 he was elected a member of the lower house of the General Assembly of Virginia. He was re-elected in '48, '49 and '50, serving four sessions in all. In 1852 he was elected President of the then Orange & Alexandria. was re-discret in '48, '49 and '50, serving four sessions in all, In 1852 he was elected President of the then Orange & Alexandria Railroad, which is now known as the Virginia Midland Railroad, and which traverses the Slate from the Potomac to the border of North Carolins, near Danville, Virginia. Mr. Barbour was largely interested in the construction of important improvements on the road and its branches. For thirty years he was annually elected president of the company until 1883, when he declined a re-election and to serve the company other than 20 not of its board of directors. In the fall of 1889 he was nominated a representative to the Forty-seventh Congress from the Eighth (Alexandris) District. He served in the two succeeding Congresses, but declined election to the Fiftieth. While a member of the House of Representatives he was Chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia for four seesions, and greatly endeared himself to the various of the properties of the particular of the Australian of the committee on the District of Columbia for four seesions, and greatly endeared pia for four sections, and greatly endeared himself to the residents of Washington himself to the residents of Washington by the deep interest he took in District affairs and in furthering legislation for the improvement of the Federal capital. It is notable that In the State elections of 1383, '84, '85 and '87, when he was Chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee and managed the canvasses, his party was successful; but the year he was seeking health in Europe and out of politics, the Republicans won the day by a large majority.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

ems of Interest for the Intelligenceric Throughout the entire year turkeys are hotels and restaurants chiefly, and they average well the year through.

The exports of live stock and dressed beef from the port of Beston for the for-eign markets last; week; were 705 cattle, 60 sheep and 15 quarters of beef.

One of the greatest drawbacks that new beginners of poultry raising have is the desire to crowd fifty fowls into the space that half that number should occupy.

Tie up the horses' tails every time you take them out of the stable when it is muddy. The tail of a borse is ornamental and useful and should be well cared for. Hard plank floors are not fit for young horses to stand upon. Injuries to the feet are often received in this way that many last as long as the animal lives. When confined in stables, which is at best an unnatural condition for colts, they should not be compelled to stand upon a hard floor of any material. Sprained tendons and joints are often the effect of long grown hoof continually tramping on solid floors. The feet need the clay and moisture that is received from coming in contact with the earth, and the less the young animals are deprived of the paddock or the field the better. Well drained dirt floors are the only kind that are fit to use in the stable for colts. in the stable for colts.

T. B. Terry, before the National Swine Breeders' Association, believes in cooking food for hoge, but he wants clover hay or some other bulky substance with the meal and shorts. He steams his meal and and shorts. He steams his meal and thoroughly mixes in clover hay, and in this way he has made 18 to 19 pounds of meal. He makes his seven monthe pigs weigh 300 pounds. How many does he breed each year? One or two litters? It would be interesting to know all these particulars. "He raises this bulky feed in the summer time and always wants it. In the winter he gives warm feed." And it was remarked by another that a pigshould never be chilly. One point that comes pre-eminently to notice is that it is a rare case to find a feeder that combines all the good points in the care of his swine.
